

Kadri Nigulas

kadri.nigulas@gmail.com

Kadri Nigulas is a Director of Development of Estonian Museum Information System MuIS in the National Heritage Board of Estonia. MuIS is Estonian-developed system and database, which is used by all of the national museum collections. It involves collection management and cataloguing, digital assets management and preservation and public services. Kadri's main focus at the moment is coordinating a 4-year development project launched in 2019.

Kadri has previously worked as a curator in Tallinn City Museum and has experience in varied fields of museum work, with focus on collections. Kadri has studied history/archaeology in the University of Tartu (MA in progress) and briefly IT in the Tallinn University of Technology. Her mother tongue is Estonian, she is also fluent in English.

Kadri joined ICOM in 2016 and has been a member of CIDOC since.